The new "revelations" about King Ludwig of Ba raria and his disjnchination to have his Kingdom in corporated into the German Empire, which are pub-lished in the "Bayerische Vaterland," are not likely o please Prince Bismarck. They fully confirm the tatements of the Emperor Frederick in his diary statements of the Emperor Frederick in his diary that the King of Bavaria was not in a situation to withstand the incorporation. The "Vaterland" states that when the project of restoring the German Empire was first mentioned, King Ludwig turned first to the Emperor of Austria; next he wrote, from Stuttgart, not from Munich, to the Russian Crar. Both declared at once that they would not interfere in the business. Consequently, left helpless and without any counsel from his fellow-severeigns, he called his Minister of War and asked, "Can I rely upon my army!" Herr von Pranckh was amazed, and replied, "Your Majesty! I cannot say." This was a sufficient answer, and after a conference of some hours with the Austrian Minister, Count Beust, in Hohenschwangau, the proud Bavarian King wrote to the Prussian King, asking him to assume the Imperial German Crown.

RETURN OF MARY ANDERSON.

Many hearts will be gladdened with the announce ment that the Umbria, which sails from Queenstown to-day, brings among its passengers the distinguished American actress, Miss Mary Anderson. No one on the stage in our time is more heartily admired, more affectionately prized, than this gentle and charming lady, whose nature is so noble, whose life has been colors in its description of the higher ideal. so clear in its devotion to duty and the higher ideal of art, whose powers as an actress are so extraor dinary, and whose achievements are so brilliant. Miss Anderson comes back to America after an absence of two years and a half, in the course of which time she has gained upon the British stage perhaps the greatest success of her whole remarkable career-in a per-formance of Hermione and Perdita in "A Winter's Tale," which was kept before the public, and was received with enthusiastic delight by crowded houses, these performances, supplementing her powerful, in The Browning Club of Boston has begun another Artrayals of Rosalind, Pauline, Parthenia and Galately Miss Anderson has established her rank, firmly

Miss Anderson has had three seasons at the Lyceum, alternating with those of Mh Ellen Terry and Henry Irving, and alike in fame and profit she has exceeded the success of any American ctor that ever appeared in that capital. This prosperous result, furthermore, has been gained by no adventition means, but by the charm of great beauty, the firee of commanding talents, the sympathetic allurement of genius, and the merit of wise, courageous and benegicent artistic labor. To see the acting of Miss Nary Anderson is to be refreshed and ennobled. People are better and happier for having felt the influence of such a mind and spirit, and for that reason her coaing is hailed with profound gladthat reason her coaing is hailed with profound glad-ness. She will abear at Paimer's Theatre (late Wallack's) on November 12, and will act there for six weeks. It is anticipied that "A Winter's Tale" will occupy the whole of that time, but Miss Anderson has recently adopted life her repertory two plays by Tennyson, "The Cup" and "The Falcon," and it is possible that these plees may be first presented by her in New-York. The foct Laureate is one of her best friends in England, and she has studied these plays under his advice. Mr. Barnes, Mrs. Billington, Mr. Arthur Lewis, Mr. Meklin, Miss Tilbury, Mrs. Abud and Mr. Joseph Andeson are members of her stock company and companins of her voyage. Mr. Ainger's letter reminds me of an almost identical friendship that existed some years ago at Grove House, Knutsford. A long-haired mastiff was kept chained as a watch-dog, and when a white fantall pige n's mate died, it attached itself to the mastiff, and was continually with it in the kennel. When the dog had its breakfast of porridge and milk, the pigeon would eat out of the bowl at the same time; and when the dog had finished, it would lie flat on its side while the pigeon perched on its head and pecked off the grains of oatmeal that stuck to the long hair round its mouth. The only danger to the pigeon seemed to be that when the dog rushed out of the kennel suddenly to bark, it seemed to forget the pigeon, and we used to fear that the heavy chain might hurt it; but it never was hurt. This friendship lasted many years, till one of the two. I forget which, died.

Two Auburn sportsmen left that city a few days ago, to spend a day in the weeds. One was equipped with a rifle, the other a shot-gun.

In the course of their travels they became separated. Each sportsman tramped on, watching for game.

At last a fox was discovered by one of the men, and supposing that no one else would ever claim the honor of killing him, raised his rifle and fired. There were two reports, the other one had himself seen the fox, and supposing it was his, fired at the same time. It is needless to say the fox fell, and two happy gunners, with visions of how he would surprise the boys when he carried him home, went to get him.

As they neared the prize they came in sight of each other. The man with the rifle claimed it was his game, and the shot-gun man knew he killed it.

As a means of ending the dispute the fox was examined. It was found that the rifle bullet had struck him in the throat and severed his wind-pipe. In his side was the charge of shot from the gun. Either would have killed it, so the question that comes up is: Whom does the fox belong to? OBJECTING TO THE PUBLICATION OF ARTI-

THE WEEK IN SOCIETY.

A FEW WEDDINGS TO BREAK THE QUIET A quiet, uneventful week in society has been the past, and few weddings have been looked upon with more than passing interest. The most attractive marriage of the week was that of Henry Warner Slocum, jr., to Miss Grace Edsall, in St. John's Church, Clifton, Staten Island, on Wednesday at noon. The descriptions of this were eagerly read by the levotees of lawn tennis, in which Mr. Slocum is a champion, and his followers were delighted to know that he promised to "love one" instead of "love fifteen" or "love thirty," as the phraseology of the tennis court has it. Miss Edsall made a pretty bride n white moire silk, mull and tulle, and her bridesmaids were likewise pleasing to look upon. They were her sister, Miss Edsall, whose engagement to a prominent Englishman has just been announced; Miss Katherine Colt, who is to be one of the November Katherine Colt, who is to be one of the November brides; Miss Florence Slocum and Miss Louise Bowers Willard. Their gowns of white Chantilly lace were set off with zouave jackets of pink and blue velvet. They also wore, as souvenirs from the happy bridegroem, brooches in the shape of a tennis racquet, in which was a tiny pearl. The best man, R. Livingston Beeckman, and the uphers. Valenting G. Mr. and Mrs. Dana will remain in Brooklyn in the Newton household. They arried that gorgeous autumn flower, the chrysanthe-

On the same day gold lace and silver brocade played an important part in a wedding which occurred at St. Thomas's Church. The bridegroom was John C. Colwell, First Lieutenant in the Navy, and one of the heroes of the Greely relief expedition. The bride was Miss Sarah Benton Brant, a granddaughter of Colonel Joshua D. Brant, one of the pioncers of St. Louis, and her father, Colonel Henry Benton Brant, was during his life well known in that city. A small wedding breakfast followed at the esidence of Dr. Wetmore, No. 41 East Twenty-ninth-Lieutenant and Mrs. Colwell will return to New-

A wedding in a distant city, Cincinnati, has some interest to New-York people, as bride and groom are well known here. It took place on Tuesday. The kride was Miss Fannie Eaton, daughter of J. O. A reception followed at the bride's he No. 155 West Eighty-seventh-st.

The weddings of the coming week have been so often commented on that there remains but little to be said regarding them. Miss Goodridge and Gouverneur Carnochan will have a limited number of their many friends at Riverdale on Tuesday, probably no than 500. This number is small when it is considered that Mrs. Goodridge's list includes some 2,500 people. The largest town wedding of the week will be that of Miss Blanche Phelps Stebbins to Lucien Vallois, of Paris, in which city the young pair will expressly to show the futility of the Government's should be war between France and Germany, Miss Stebbins's younger sister is about to wed a German and will live in Fragisfort-on-the-Main.

pon the Emperor William to-day, presented an address of welcome on the occasion of his return home, and were startled by some emphatic remarks, in the course of the Emperor's reply, on the scandal and gossip of the press affecting the Imperial family. The deputation requested permission to erect in the Schlossplatz, in memory of the Emperor's visit to Vienna and Rome, a fountain designed by Professor Begas, the The Emperor expressed his gratification and interest in the undertaking. The people of Berlin, he said, had followed his journeys, and knew that the friendly reception which he met with everywhere was not intended only for himself, but rather for the municipal representatives prepared for him he thanked to come on the day when the Church of the Holy Cross in which his father, the Emperor Frederick had always shown the greatest interest, was conse-crated. The Emperor expressed the hope that he would soon see more such fine churches erected in Berlin. He trusted that his journeyings would have the best results for the Empire.

After retiring from the Emperor's presence the municipal authorities considered the purport of the Emperor's remarks. Several of the officials professed their inability to comprehend his meaning, though ! was obvious the Emperor had spoken very seriously. Mayor Forckenback afterward saw the chief of the Emperor's civil court, and requested him to give some explanation of the Emperor's language.

Prior to the receiving of the deputation the Emperor and Empress were present at the consecration of the Church of the Holy Cross which was founded by Emperor Frederick. RISMARCK'S EAST AFRICAN POLICY.

Prince Bismarek's policy relative to East Africa becomes clear, his overtures to the English, Beiglan and Italian governments tending to result in combined action against the slave-traders of Central Africa. A conference is probable, in which France will be invited to join, to arrange for the forcible suppression of the Arab slave trade. The North German Gazette' declares that the Moslem slave trade is extending its resources to such a degree that no single nation will suffice to suppress it. The Gazette' is confident that the German and English people will prove equal to the task imposed upon them by sacred principles of religion and humanity.

creases. The order issued by the Marshal of the Im-perial Court that documents relating to the coronation perial Court that documents relating to the coronation of Kings of Bohemia be collated and investigated is considered to indicate Count von Taafe's intention to advise Emperor Francis Joseph to accede to the Czeches' demands. The Bohemian German Prince of Clary and Aldringen has been trying to effect a compromise between the Germans and the Czeches. The proposal pleases nobody. The Czeches refuse to surrender their historic rights, and the Germans consider it would lead the way to the triumph of Bohemian autonomy, including Moravia and Silesia. In the meantime the Clerical party keeps more quiet. The Galician Poles are hopeful of obtaining in their turn some form of autonomy.
